PRYING INTO THE DEATH OF

At the Preliminary Hearing of Frank Philbrook, the Story of How Money, Supposed to Have Been Quigley's, Was Divided, Is Told for the First Time by James O'Brien.

The preliminary hearing of Frank Philbrook, charged with the murder of Patrick Quigley in a rooming house at 352 Twenty-fifth street, on the night of January 17, was begun this morning before Judge George S. Barker. Court was held in the city council chamber at the city hall, which was filled to its utmost capacity with spectators. County Attorney Joseph E. Evans conducted the prosecution, with District Attorney John C. Davis as associate prosecutor and Attorney Soren X. Christensen acting as counsel for the defense. The witnesses examined were Mrs. Fannie Dawson and James O'Brien. Their direct testimony was mainly a review of that given publicity at the inquest over the body of Quigley, but in the cross-examination of O'Brien some new and divergent testimony was brought out.

Mrs. Dawson told of renting a room to Quigley and later of the social hour in the family dining room, which ended with the old miner being taken out by Philbrook and O'Brien. The major portion of her answers to questions as to the manner in which Quigley was removed from the room were that she did not know. It was her opinion, however, that he was entirely unable to help himself. She retired for the night, she said, about 10:30 o'clock and did not know anything about the death of Quigley until the next day In answer to questions by Attorney Christensen, she stated that she did not know why, or in what capacity, Reading, "Our Responsibilities to she was being held in jail, except that it had something to do with the Quiglev murder.

READY FOR SHOW ON WEDNESDAY

Due to weather conditions and also o the fact that automobile men will be busy at the show demonstrating their machines, it is said today by the directing board of the Automobile show, which opens in Ogden Wednesday evening, there will be no auto parade. However, decorations will be in place and a band will give music on the besiness streets that lead to the show place in the Dee-Eccles building, on Twenty-fourth street.

The committee on decorations, Andrew Jost and C. M. Herrick, has made arrangements fo quite elaborate decorations on Washington avenue and the intersections of Twentythird, Twenty-fourth and Twentyfifth streets, and on the corner of Twenty-fourth street and Hudson avenue, which is within a stone's throw of the exhibition halls. The show place will also be decorated, inside and out This afternoon carpenters and oth er mechanics are arranging booths for the big show, and it is possible some of the automobiles will be place ed in position to day. That which is not done today will be done tomorrow and next day, the plan being that, be fore the opening of the show Wednesday evening, everything will be in readiness. All of the automobile men are deeply in earnest and they propose to make the first annual auto show an attractive affair.

Decorations used at the fashion show have been engaged, but they will be placed at only the street intersections. Time would hardly per-mit the placing of decorations be tween the intersections, as the matter of extensive decorations has not been taken up by the board of directors and officers of the automobile organ-
